

How technician commission is calculated

Oasis Globe · effective 12 August 2026

Commission is worked out per part on a closed job. Which of the two rules applies depends on the part's brand. GST of 18% comes off both, cash or online alike. The service charge and the visit charge never earn commission, and a part with no brand set earns nothing at all.

KENT & AQUAGUARD

8% of price

Rising to 10% for the whole day once the daily target is met. 18% GST comes off.

OASIS

The margin

Selling price minus the issue price, then 18% GST off that. The daily target does not change it.

DAILY TARGET

₹10,000

One technician's billing in one day, counted on the Indian calendar day.

Rule 1 — Kent and Aquaguard

A flat percentage of what the customer paid for that part, less GST. What we bought it for does not enter into it.

Kent RO Membrane, sold at ₹3,100
normal day	$3,100 \times 8\%$	$= ₹248$	less GST	$\rightarrow ₹203.36$
target met	$3,100 \times 10\%$	$= ₹310$	less GST	$\rightarrow ₹254.20$

Rule 2 — Oasis

The technician earns the margin, not a percentage: the selling price less the price the part was issued to him at. GST of 18% then comes off that margin.

Oasis Carbon Filter, sold at ₹550, issued at ₹350
margin	$550 - 350$	$= ₹200$
less GST	200×0.82	$= ₹164$

The daily target has no effect here. Oasis is always the margin.

Why GST comes off

Part prices are MRP, and MRP already includes the 18% tax. The company owes that tax on the sale whichever way the customer paid, so commission is worked out on what is left after it — not on the tax. It applies to both rules and to cash and online alike: two identical jobs pay the same, however the customer settled.

If a technician bills ₹10,000 or more in one day, the Kent and Aquaguard rate rises from 8% to 10% — and it applies to every job of that day, including the ones done before the target was reached, not only those after it. The day is the Indian calendar day, so it resets at midnight IST.

that membrane $3,100 \times 10\% = ₹310$, less GST $\rightarrow ₹254.20$
(at 8% it would have been ₹203.36)

The service charge counts towards the ₹10,000 even though it earns nothing itself.

LINE ON THE BILL	COMMISSION	WHY
Service charge / visit charge	₹0	Counts towards the daily target, but pays nothing on its own
A part with no brand set	₹0	Neither rule can be applied — the brand decides which one is used
Warranty and repeat calls	₹0	Nothing is billed, so there is nothing to earn from

An ordinary job with two Oasis parts, on a day where the target was not reached.

Day's commission: ₹1,071.60

18 Oasis parts still have no issue price on file. PIPE 1/4 above is one of them. With the cost recorded as zero, the whole selling price counts as margin, so the technician is paid 82% of the sale instead of 82% of the real margin. They are marked in the table overleaf. Send the issue prices and they will be loaded.

Rates and part prices read from the live system on 12 August 2026. Changing a rate or a part's issue price changes what is paid from that moment on; jobs already closed are not recalculated.

Oasis parts — what each one pays

Margin less 18% GST. The daily target does not change these.
